Conferences & events programme

PARIS
REAL ESTATE
Week

What is The Paris Real Estate Week ?

A week of MIPIM and PROPEL events dedicated to property, cities and innovation.

The Paris Real Estate Week is the first event to trigger business rebound gathering international real estate leaders who wish to reconnect, benefit from timely content and prepare future investment strategies, to speed the recovery of the property industry.

With a new concept, the Paris Real Estate Week offers a full programme of thought-inspiring keynotes, conference sessions and networking events around 5 main topics:

Innovation

Urban Environment

Investment

Hospitality

Diversity

The first days of the Paris Real Estate Week focus on innovation in real estate.

Propel by MIPIM becomes the Week's flagship event with conference sessions, networking opportunities and an exhibition area that will address key topics such as data, sustainable development, talent, investing in innovation, and the user experience.

Throughout the week, take the opportunity to attend events that made the success of MIPIM Cannes such as the Awards Ceremony & Dinner, the Startup Competition Finals and the Hospitality Summit.

To complete this unrivaled programme, MIPIM organises the MIPIM Urban Forum. Themed around "Embracing change", the sessions will be designed to analyse all the factors that have changed our urban lives and how they impact the industry and urban development. A "City Forum" dedicated to decision-makers from French local authorities will also take place on 16 September to encourage the sharing of experiences and provide an initial assessment of how Covid-19 has affected real estate.

Our partners will enrich this insightful week with the Gend'her networking breakfast organized with Business Immo and KPMG and The Young Leaders networking event brought to you by the Institut Choiseul.

NOT TO BE MISSED

Propel by MIPIM is delighted to welcome Steve Wozniak, Apple co-founder and forward-thinking entrepreneur for a moderated chat.

Thinking differently to deliver innovative solutions is the DNA of Steve Wozniak, who revolutionized the world of technology.

Throughout his career, Steve Wozniak has shown how a business successfully transforms and flourishes through the capacity to innovate. More than ever, technology is an integral part of our lives and the real estate industry is no exception. Its entire ecosystem is reinventing itself.

Tuesday 15 September, 14 :30-15 :15

MIPIM Urban Forum is pleased to welcome Nicolas Sarkozy former President of the French Republic.

Widely considered one of the most influential of French presidents to date, Nicolas Sarkozy offers an unparalleled analysis of the most pressing issues of our time.

Nicolas Sarkozy served as the 23rd President of the French Republic (2007 to 2012). Prior to his presidency, Sarkozy served as Minister of State, Minister of the Interior and Spatial Planning and Minister of the Economy, Finance and Industry. A visionary leader who has dedicated his life to public service, Sarkozy is widely recognized for his hands-on tactics and straightforward approach in dealing with the most critical issues of our time-foreign policy, national security, global economics and immigration. Integral in the international community's response to Libya's civil war, he was also involved with brokering an end to the August 2008 conflict between Russia and Georgia and led the European Union's response in establishing the G20 summits. Pragmatic and decisive, Sarkozy was at the forefront of the response to end the Euro Crisis and directed the bridging of a multi-year gap between the leaders of France and Germany. The recipient of numerous humanitarian awards and accolades and the author of several books on politics and the issues facing modern democracies, Sarkozy shares with audiences his perspective on the future and solutions to the challenges we face in the 21st century.

Cities of tomorrow: new approaches to urban design

Good urban planning is one of the keys to building resilience. We look at how urban design can enhance the life of not only the city but also its inhabitants in socio-economic and environmental terms. Using the example of Hamburg's waterfront HafenCity, we show how mixed-use development is fundamental to good urban design.

Sustainable cities in motion, leading forward innovative models for a more responsible urban logistics, serving a better quality of life

The recent events brought even more to light how an efficient urban logistics and deliveries are crucial for cities. It also emphasized the society urge for more responsible life and consumption, looking for a better quality of life. However, logistics sites are still not the most desired activity in city centers, which lead to more transport, more pollution and disturbances. This is why urban logistics sites and schemes need to be reinvented. Come to discover the new urban logistics innovation, taking advantages of unused surfaces, to enable more clean deliveries, reverse logistics, returnable packaging, altogether limiting the pressure on square meters and owners buildings costs.

Asset class on-stage interviews

Post Covid-19 strategy insights

Covering hospitality, healthcare, logistics, retail, offices/co-working, co-living and housing/residential, this conference stream will contain a series of keynote speaker interviews providing their insights on the challenges and opportunities for their key individual asset classes during these unprecedented times of Covid-19. The interviewer will pose a series of questions for all asset class speakers, such as how do you plan to relaunch the business and what are the major difficulties now being faced? In so doing the audience will learn about the future strategies of different asset classes, which will provide insights to help them, their company and sector overcome the crisis towards the road to future recovery and prosperity.

Forum de la Ville - Data and cities

The Champs Elysées Committee entrusted the agency PCA Stream and its architect Philippe Chiambaretta to imagine a complete redevelopment the avenue, its gardens and its squares (Place de la Concorde, Place de l'Etoile). The ensuing project, called "reenchanting the Champs-Elysées" was shown to the public at the Pavillon de l'Arsenal, in Paris, and was voted on by 100 000 participants through the online platform make.org. The project has been endorsed by the Mayor of Paris

The study drawn up by the architect is based on a robust scientific approach, with data points from several different sources : car and pedestrian traffic, ad hoc opinion surveys, noise and atmospheric pollution, post-project traffic simulation, etc...The underlying idea is that data should help city planners to enhance a city's attractiveness, its inclusiveness and its sustainability. It should also help to measure the impact of urban developments through a test and learn process.

Hospitality Summit: close door-event

The next paradigm

The hospitality sector has of course been severely impacted by Covid-19 and will need to show great adaptability, creativity and innovation in future. Organised in partnership with MKG Consulting and consisting of a keynote address, roundtables and a panel discussion, this Summit will gather in a closed-door environment CEOs from the major hospitality groups along with political leaders, developers and investors to debate the challenges of continuing the trends of previous years. In particular, it will discuss how operators and investors should join forces to achieve a necessary diversification of revenues and rebalance the marketing mix between local and international guests. In addition, it will debate to what extent sustainable development can create value for assets and operations
